ASARO: Hello.

CW: Vin.

ASARO: Yeah.

CW: What happened?

ASARO: Yeah, a quarter, that's all. Cried the blues.

CW: What, twenty-five hundred?

ASARO: Yeah, yeah. Forget about it, he's, fuck, I was gonna call ya, I couldn't find the fucking number. I got it in my phone, but I didn't wanna keep pressing the fucking thing while I was driving.

CW: All right, uh … When you getting …

ASARO: Uh, next week. Yeah, you know.

CW: Next week?

ASARO: He says no, I only got, he ended up, he said, with fifty-eight thousand. He says …

CW: Yeah, that's—

ASARO: … he borrowed sixty. Gotta pay.

CW: That's what he told me.

ASARO: Oh, he told you, too?

CW: Yeah, he told me the same thing.

ASARO: I didn't know that fuck was still alive, that bitch, what's her name?

CW: (UI)

ASARO: Evelyn?

CW: Evelyn's alive? Is she?

ASARO: Yeah! He had to give her, uh, I forget, he told me the figure. "Vin," he says, I swear to God, I asked him for six. Ah God, "Vinny," he says, "I swear to God," he says, "I'm a worker. I would help you in a minute." He says, "you know, I always liked you, you know?"

CW: Yeah.

ASARO: The whole nine yards, you know? And then I tried for like three, right? He says, "Vin, the best I could do is a quarter." I don't wanna press the kid, you know?

CW: Yeah.

ASARO: I don't wanna press him, but I gotta wait till next Thursday. I needed it today, you know? I was gonna take a shot.

CW: (Laughing) Yeah, I know, I know that.

ASARO: Yeah, well naturally, I have to, no?

CW: Yeah, of course.

ASARO: How could I survive?

CW: Of course.

ASARO: (Laughing) You're hot shit.

CW: (Laughing) I spoke to, uh, cousin Tommy Boy.

ASARO: Fuck him.

CW: I told him, no, well, he says, I'm glad you're back, you guys love each other. I said it's beyond love Tom.

ASARO: What, what did he say?

CW: He said, I know yous, you guys love each other. I said it's beyond love, I said, you know, it's a thing …

ASARO: Yeah.

CW: … like, you know.

ASARO: Like family. What's the big deal?
